

Welcome to the Aurora Workplace Law website

By accessing or using this website, you agree to the terms of use of our website set out below. The terms of use include our legal disclaimer and our privacy policy and any other terms or conditions on this website.

Website content does not constitute legal advice

1. The material on our website is intended only to provide a summary and general overview on legal topics. It is not intended to constitute legal advice. You should always obtain legal or other professional advice, tailored to your own circumstances, before acting or relying on any of the content.

No solicitor/client relationship

2. Your use of this website, or the receipt of any information from us or this website, is not intended to create, nor does it create, a solicitor-client relationship between you and Aurora Workplace Law. If you are interested in asking us to represent you, please call or email us so that we can determine whether the matter is one for which we are willing or able to accept professional responsibility.

Limitation of Liability

4. Aurora Workplace Law makes no warranties or representations about this website or any of the content. To the extent permitted by law, we do not accept responsibility for any loss or damage of any kind (however caused, including by negligence) which may arise from the use of this website, its content or the information on it.

5. Under no circumstances will any Aurora Workplace Law entity be liable for any incidental, special or consequential damages, including damages for loss of business or other profits arising in relation to the use of this website.

6. Where any law implies a warranty into these terms of use which may not lawfully be excluded, then to the maximum extent permitted by law, our liability for breach of the warranty will at our option be limited to the supply of the Services again, or the payment of the cost of having them supplied again.
